Will you get quality pictures?

Recent innovations in camera technology have greatly improved the effectiveness of CCTV. Systems are reliable, efficient, and also simple to use.

Gone are the days when it was only possible to have blurred black and white pictures. Now cameras can be either colour or black and white, and are capable of giving high-resolution pictures even in low light conditions.

Systems can be designed to cover large areas, and our care and expertise can ensure that no blind spots occur. We can create systems that are highly visible, yet tamperproof for maximum deterrent value, or unobtrusive and even concealed for more sensitive applications.

Whatever your need, our experience ensures that we provide the best solution.

Why choose Group 4?

The Visual Contact Division of Group 4 Systems designs and installs complete CCTV surveillance systems. We design systems from single camera applications, through to multi camera systems, or for

Aftersales Support

The most important thing about a CCTV System is that it continues to work. So that you can be confident that it will provide clear pictures, 365 days a year and it won't let you down on the one-day that you really need it. That is why aftersales support is probably the most important part of selecting your CCTV system.

At Group 4 we take this very seriously.

We are able to tailor your aftersales support to suit your needs precisely.
